Without plants, humans and all other animals would not exist. Their production of food using sunlight provides the foundation of most ecosystems. Plants are essential to all life on Earth. They are special because they are able to make their own food by a process called photosynthesis where they take carbon dioxide from the atmosphere and turn it into sugar.